COOLIDGE WILL WIN, SAYS FORD

Flivver Maker Says Cal Has No Money Taint

EXPLAINS SUPPORT

Blames Money Powers for World War, Peace Failures

DETROIT, Oct. 28.—"I'm for Coolidge because he is opposed to the money power," declared Henry Ford today in a statement issued by the automobile manufacturer from his Dearborn office.

"Personally," he declared, "I have no doubt that Coolidge will be decisively elected; he will be elected because he has refused to be the tool of any class; he has not served any special interest."

Blames War on Money Kings

"Wall Street has found that it cannot be handled and by Wall Street I mean that section of the international money trust that operates in the United States in Wall Street, in Lombard street in London and in the Place De La Bourse in Paris. That is the money power that made the war, poisoned the peace, exploited Germany and threw England into unemployment. That money power does not want Calvin Coolidge."

"Men have come to me and asked how I could support Coolidge, a republican, when I supported Wilson, a democrat. I'm not supporting Coolidge because he is a republican. I did not support Wilson because he was a democrat."

Says People Uppermost

"I am for Coolidge now because I believe that he thinks more of the people than of the party. I think he is an able man, deserving the support of all forward looking men. 'I think Coolidge is on the side of production, service and prosperity. That's why I am for Coolidge.'"

CITY RECORDS PIER PAYMENT

$3221.80 Paid by Dunstan, Says Resolution

The pleasure pier was up again before the city commission today.

A resolution setting forth that a total of $3431 had been paid by C. E. Dunstan, lessee of the pier in cash to the city and in payment of bills for repair of pier fixtures and the canal bridge, was adopted by the commission.

The resolution set forth that the city engineer had estimated $3431 would be required for pier repairs, that $3221.80 had been paid by Dunstan for repairs and that $209.20 in cash had been paid to the city by Dunstan.

Allows Dunstan Credit

The resolution allows Dunstan this credit on his base of the pier from June 1, 1924, for two years for a total sum of $9,600. The receipted bills paid by Dunstan are attached to the resolution. The cash sum of $209.20 was paid yesterday by Dunstan, City Clerk J. C. Hamilton said.

Dunstan took over the pier from the city under an agreement by which he was to pay the bills for repair of the pier and the bridge, estimate of $3431 being given on this work by City Engineer J. O. Herpin, and this sum being specified in the lease granted Dunstan.

Wistner Pays Bills

Instead of passing through the city clerk's office, bills went through the office of City Attorney V. J. Wistner, Dunstan paying Wistner and the city attorney in turn paying the bills as approved by Herpin.

Accounting of these bills was asked some time ago by E. H. Miles while still acting as city clerk, the request being made of both Wistner and Finance Commissioner B. H. Wiley. The resolution today, with the receipted bills attached, has been the first action in the pier matter since Miles' request. The bills for the most part were from construction companies, painters and electric companies.

QUIZ RIGHT OF SCHOOL MOVIES

Officials Discuss Operator Exam Question

Whether the operation of moving picture machines in the public schools shall come under the recent city ordinance requiring all operators to pass a special examination under a board composed of the city electrical inspector, fire inspector and a representative of the local operators' union, is a question now before city officials.

A meeting of several projection machine operators this morning with Fire Marshal Coe and Electrical Inspector Paggi sought to settle the question. The operator representatives were of the opinion the school machines should be under the city ordinance as well as those of the various movie theatres.

"Naturally, we had rather see the school buildings protected from fire than the moving picture houses, as it affects the public and not private individuals. If the law is good to protect the private owners let it apply to the schools, too," was the opinion of the operator representatives expressed today.

The operators offered to furnish a man to the schools free of charge to operate the machines there. Another meeting will be held this afternoon at 2 o'clock in Inspector Paggi's office. In the meantime Superintendent Sims and members of the public school board will be conferred with by both the city and operator representatives.

CLAIM DROUTH FORCES ACTION

Scares Also Cut Inroads In Industry, Say

Wholesale and retail milk in Port Arthur is scheduled for an increase in price to retailers and consumers. The Port Arthur Dairy Farmers association today reported action of its membership taken at a meeting at Nederland. Members include dairy-men selling milk in Port Arthur, Nederland and South Park.

"Conditions relating to dairies have been worse this summer than in the history of the oldest farmers," the association's resolution read.

Claim Herds Suffering

"We have had about everything to contend with this summer that we have ever had before, and then some—anthrax, tick fever, and typhoid fever—and people didn't buy milk. And then the scare caused by the hoof and mouth disease and an unprecedented drought have brought about a deplorable situation."

"Our herds are suffering from lack of grass and water. Where in normal times at this time of year there now there is practically no pasture left, and the present milk supply is far below normal."

Declare Many Forced Out

"On top of that feed prices have advanced steadily," the statement continues, "and in view of the situation, we have agreed that the price of milk will have to be advanced, both wholesale and retail, as we are operating at a loss and quite a few have already been forced out of business."

No announcement of the amount of increase was made, but it will go into effect at an early date, officials said.

Officials of the organization are K. Koelmey, secretary, who presided; L. J. Gilland, vice president, and F. T. Smith, Hugh Kitchen and K. Koelmey, directors.

MURDER VICTIM GIVES UP FIGHT

Life Ebbing Away Through Shattered Lung

MYSTERY CAR SEEN

New Angle Added to Purchase of Shells Here

Death was more powerful than life in Hotel Dieu hospital at Beaumont today as R. C. Stokes, his side gapingly ripped open by a shotgun shell loaded with a lead ball intended for another, was yielding, slowly but certainly despite all the efforts of his own heroic will and medical science.

Stokes' death was considered only a matter of a few short hours. Physicians said he was bleeding both internally and externally. The dying man fell into a state of coma shortly before noon, the course of life reluctantly ebbing outward.

Gives Up the Fight

"Well, I guess I'll have to give up the fight," Stokes said feebly, shortly before becoming unconscious. The dying man's powerful constitution that had carried on the fight against invisible death for nearly four days could no longer resist.

shells each loaded with an ounce ball and gave the purchaser a third one.
Constable Tom Hausenfluck of Beaumont was in Port Arthur yesterday and questioned Bell, and was here again today together with two other officers, Bell said. They found out all they could from Bell on the purchase of the shells, leaving only shortly before 1 o'clock today.
"I have only a very vague impression of the whole thing, and I judge it was about three weeks ago that I sold the shells," Bell said. "I don't remember the man at all, and the only reason I remember selling the shells at all is because we have had several boxes of them in stock for the last two years and haven't been able to sell them."

Said He Wanted to Shoot

The shells, one of which may have been the one used last Friday night, are Western Field brand, 12-gauge, open at the end with the one-ounce lead ball packed in brown wadding near the open end.
"I remember the fellow asked what the biggest size of buckshot was, and I told him. He asked whether we had anything bigger than that, and I showed him these," Bell said, pointing to several boxes of the shells loaded with single balls.
"Those will be all right for shooting geese, won't they?" he asked me. "I told him they would be, and remember cautioning him about not putting them in a tight barrel. The reason they're not generally used is because they are hard on a gun, especially if the barrel is packed tight."

"I have just a vague impression of the whole thing, and I remember it because we just happened to have these shells in stock so long."

A slight clue of doubtful value was established in Beaumont yesterday afternoon when officers learned that a man believed to be the assassin had come from the Pollock home on Elm street in a Ford touring car. The information was turned over to officers only yesterday, although no explanation was made, officers said, as to why the information was not volunteered sooner. At least it may establish the fact of an accomplice.

Only a very vague description was given of the fleeing assassin. He is said to have rushed out of the alley alongside the Pollock home, where he had stood on the grass and fired the shot through the window, and with shoulders crouched scampered to the waiting car.

The Ford car was already moving, the engine running while it waited, when the man who is believed to have fired the single shot leaped into the front seat beside the waiting driver and slammed the door shut. The car was out of sight down Elm street in an instant, it was reported to officers.

A large reward will be offered for the apprehension of Stokes' assassin. It was indicated today with announcement Magnolia officials and fellow employees, with the county and sheriff departments, are planning a purse for this purpose.

Let's see now. In Detroit, somebody shot a Chinese laundryman instead of cutting his throat with a collar.

PT. NECHES FOLK
HEAR DALRYMPLE

Klan, Butte, G.O.P. Played
By Ferguson Speaker

PORT NECHES, Texas, Oct. 28.—Carrying out in the main his issues as set forth before a rally in Port Arthur Saturday night, a speech was delivered by Major V. A. Dalrymple, of Port Worth, in Port Neches park Monday night.

A small crowd gathered in the park to hear Dalrymple, who was introduced by Jesse B. Peek of Port Arthur, former county judge, following a brief speech by J. E. Rose, Port Arthur attorney, setting forth the object of the meeting and the issues in the gubernatorial campaign in Texas.

Laughing and talking by a party of youths on the outskirts of the crowd and the noise made by automobiles starting and stopping near the speaker's stand lasted throughout the speech, and poor lighting facilities added to the difficulties under which Major Dalrymple spoke.

During his speech, Major Dalrymple referred to "the shower of rotten eggs" at the Port Arthur rally Saturday night, and passed the incident as "a sorry joke." In the ranks of the Ku Klux Klan, he charged, are "bootleggers, pimps, panders, and cut throats who use the Klan as a shield for their nefarious practices."

The candidacy of "Ma" Ferguson, democratic nominee for governor, was championed. Jim Ferguson, former governor of Texas, and his record defended, and Dr. George C. Butte, republican nominee for governor, and republicans in general, were scored by Major Dalrymple. Democrats who, he charged, have formed an "unholy alliance with the republican party through the Ku Klux Klan," were characterized by Dalrymple as "hybrids."

NEGRO GIVEN
60-DAY TERM

Pawning of Stolen Watch
Admitted at Trial

Aftermath of Port Arthur's "reign of terror" which resulted in the clearing up of wholesale residence burglaries here, at Orange and Vin-ton, La., with the arrest of Louis Baptist, negro convict who admitted the yegg series, was this morning before Judge A. W. Dycus in city court who assessed a penalty of 60 days in jail and $25 fine on J. C. Jenkins, negro who was arrested after he admitted pawning one of the stolen watches.

Jenkins plead guilty to possessing the stolen property. He first told officers Beckham and Smith he bought the watch from a negro at Orange. Then he said he accidentally ran across it at home and his final story was Baptist gave it to his sister and let him have it to pawn. Jenkins admitted these stories on the stand today.

A business man who received the stolen watch was placed on the stand and identified it. Jenkins' arrest and information led to the arrest of Baptist and clearing up of the burglary mystery. Baptist cleared Jenkins as an accomplice and took all blame for the robberies.

The light sentence was imposed because of Baptist's testimony which cleared him and the fact Jenkins had been instrumental in the burglary solution, Judge Dycus said.

WALL STREET JOURNAL
FINANCIAL REVIEW
NEW YORK, Oct. 28.—Shorts were manifestly nervous in view of the continued severity of the general list with the election only a week away. The steadiness of the main body of stocks was the cause of better relief by the weakness in special issues like American Sugar and Yellow Cab manufacturing.
Development of pronounced strength in the stock market issues on the announcement that the preferred stock would be retired at 125 served to heighten the discomfort of the bear element in the afternoon. Covering became more urgent among vital issues which reached the best levels of the current recovery in the final dealings.

"BROKEN BARRIERS"

The good and evil of divorce and its effect on the younger generation is the subject of Reginald Barker's newest production for Metro, "Broken Barriers," at the Peoples theatre. Ward Trinton, a man of high ideals, is in love with Grace Durland. He wants a divorce from his wife, who admits she does not love him. The girl, lost in the mazes of her love for Trinton, is all for breaking the walls of convention that surround them, but is stopped just in time when her younger brother gets mixed up in an affair with a pretty fapper. She goes to say goodbye to the man she loves when a development occurs that puts an entirely new light on their love and brings the story to a powerful climax.

The cast includes James Kirkwood, Mae Busch, Adolphe Menjou, Norma Shearer, George Fawcett, Robert Frazer, Ruth Stonehouse, Winifred Bryson, Robert Agnew, Vera Reynolds and Edith Chapman.

"THE GAIETY GIRL"

"The Gaiety Girl," Mary Philbin's sparkling new starring vehicle, a Universal-Jewel adaptation of J. A. R. Wylie's novel "The Inheritance," comes tomorrow to the Cameo theatre. The new picture, the first in which Miss Philbin appears in the modern garb of a girl of today, follows her sensational successes in "Merry-Go-Round" and "Fool's Highway," in one of which she appeared as a New York girl, in the other as a waif of New York's old Bowery. The new picture is a story of an aristocratic English girl, forced by circumstances on the stage, tricked into an odious marriage, and delivered from her predicament by one of the strangest tricks of fate ever seen on the screen. The gay night life of London, the hectic revelry of the Gaiety girls, and other spectacular embellishments mark the action of the story.

JACKIE COOGAN HERE

Jackie Coogan's latest Metro-Goldwyn picture, "Little Robinson Crusoe," is the attraction at the Strand theatre. According to advance reports, this production provides wonderful entertainment for all children—young or old.

The story was written by Willard Mack, famous American playwright especially for the juvenile star, and tells about the adventures of a small boy cast up on a South Sea island. The supporting cast includes Tom Santschi, Gloria Grey, Will Walling, Bert Sprout, Noble Johnson, Tom Dugrow and C. H. Wilson. It was produced under the supervision of Jack Coogan, Sr.

Famed in poetry and in prose, the historical ride of Paul Revere was never before invested with the significance, the thrills and the daring that it is in D. W. Griffith's "America," the romantic epic of the War of Independence, which will have its premiere at the Strand theatre on November 8.

THE BATTLE OF THE GIANTS

By HUGH NUGENT FITZGERALD
News Staff Writer

It is necessary to know the history of the past to understand the present and to be able to even attempt to forecast the future. Texas in the banner democratic state. Democrats have absolutely dominated the state since 1872. In that year Edmund J. Davis, the last republican governor of Texas, was driven from the capital—first by the ballot of the free born at the polls and then by the guns of militant democrats who swore that while time shall last the party of white civilization and Thomas Jefferson should hold a vice-like grip on the reins of government.

From 1872 until 1900, or for a period of 18 years, Texas governmentally speaking, was held in a vice-like grip by the followers of Jefferson. In 1890 came James Stephen Hogg, the plumed knight of progressive democracy of that era. Hogg had a program. He smashed the democratic machine which had been enthroned since the passing of Edmund J. Davis and he created a machine of his own, not for plundering purposes but for progressive party action.

What Hogg Did
Hogg wrilled the railways which were all powerful and he endeavored to loosen the grip of the foreign and domestic land syndicates which threatened to establish in this free commonwealth the rack-renting system of landlord and serf then in vogue in foreign nations, and some of the American states.

In all his campaigns this first native son called to the office of governor, had the centers of population and the leading newspapers arrayed against him. He was branded as an anarchist, denounced as a menace, ridiculed as an uncouth and ill informed lout. He had the practical time serving politicians against him, that horde of pap-suckers and tax eaters and influence-sellers that were a part of the political system of that era. Those political baronies in those bygone days always recognized the voice of their master.

For Hogg were the tillers of the soil, the small farmer, the tenant farmer, and in the cities and towns those bold spirits who need not be catalogued who were without money and without price, the really progressive democrats of that eventful time. Fate and the onward march of progress decreed that Hogg should win and victory came to his flag and cause.

His first term as governor was as stormy as fire and blood progressive on one side and the gladiators and janitaries of consolidated wealth and organized special privilege on the other side could make it. Hogg never wavered. He wrote the enemy hip and thigh and in 1892 the democracy of the Lone Star state split wide open in the city of Houston, held two state conventions, the regulars renominating the commander and the irregulars facing in the field as their nominees for governor Judge George Clark of Waco, known as the Warwick of the old times, gallant Confederate soldier, foremost corporation lawyer and hailed from the gulf to the mountains as the "Little Giant."

Thus it happened that some 20 years after Edmund J. Davis had been dethroned and democracy placed in the saddle Texas had the spectacle of men who call themselves democrats, appointed sons of Jefferson, in opposing camps, led by rival generals, each command more vindictive, more direct to Longfellow's poem on the ride, for while the poet stated that "Hardly a man now alive remembers that famous date and year," the victorious applause which greets every hoofbeat of Revere's horse shows very well that women and children as well as men remember Paul, his steed, and the occasion of their journey very, well indeed.

"HIS DARKER SELF"

"His Darker Self," the feature length comedy starring Lloyd Hamilton, which is now being shown at the Liberty theatre, represents the first serious effort to bring the blackboard art to the screen. Never before has it been done in a feature-length production.

In "His Darker Self" Hamilton is seen as Claude Sappington, an amateur sleuth who changes his color and mingles with the colored gentry in order to catch a murderer. The supporting cast includes such well known players of both stage and screen as Tom Wilson, Tom O'Malley, Lucille La Verne, Irma Harrison, Edna May Sperl, Sally Long, Warren Cook, Kate Bruce and Charlie Graham.

Col. Jerome C. Kearby for governor as well as candidates for all the other offices. Culberson was in his prime, eloquent and magnetic, but he had a foeman worthy of his steel. Kearby had been a gallant soldier of the Confederacy. He was a brilliant lawyer and campaigner. He was as persuasive as Bourke Cockran, a giant in stature as well as intellect.

An amazing and almost incredible campaign followed. Culberson, the regular, won by a handsome majority, but many cities, including Dallas, gave the populist idol, supported by the republicans, small majorities. Sayers followed Culberson. Opposition to his renomination did not materialize. Then Lanham succeeded Sayers. "Let well enough alone," was the order of the day. There was peace in the land, so to speak, with populistic grumbling growing fainter and fainter. Sayers and Lanham had been fighting men in their youth. They became quakers in their old age.

In Riga, Latvia, peasants killed the tax collectors, but we advise against such drastic measures.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 28.—Resignations of four United States district attorneys have been asked within the past few weeks and six such officials have already resigned. Attorney General Stone said today.

This upheaval and a "general betterment in enforcement," Stone said, "resulted from the letter of Mrs. Mabel Willebrandt, assistant attorney general, to the Philadelphia Law Enforcement League, last July.

Mrs. Willebrandt's letter recently came into the limelight when Samuel Untermyer of New York charged that conditions concerning "politics in prohibition enforcement" as set forth in the communication had not been remedied.

Hughes Attacks Davis for
"Petting" the Liberals

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Oct. 28.—Declaring that the only hope of Davis and La Follette was to throw the election into congress and that "Davis was petting La Follette in the late combination," Charles Evans Hughes, secretary of state, made his speech here last night before a crowd estimated at 10,000 people.

Hughes said that La Follette's program was "dangerous" and that the program of disorder that would follow his election would "destroy the supreme court, the bulwark of liberty." He also assailed Davis for his criticism of the foreign policy of the administration and questioned his "sincerity in attacks on the recent reduction of armaments."

speech for Chicago where he is scheduled to speak tonight.

WAR VICTIMS

Recently, at Wembley, the splendors of the Empire Pageant were dimmed for many by the sight of a row of stretchers placed on the platform of honor in the Stadium, supporting over thirty men broken in the Empire's War. They were incurable patients from St. David's Home, Ealing, and had been asked to see the pageant by the generosity of Sir William Purser.

The cripples and wrecks of humanity that remain with us are pitiful reminders of the stupidity of mankind in settling its international quarrels by war.

The war front may be splendid enough with the beating of drums, the blare of trumpets and the march of troops. But after war, the spectacle of the maimed, the bruised and broken, leads to the conclusion that there is nothing more terrible than a defeat, except a victory.

It is difficult to see the good that has come out of the late war, with Germany bankrupt, France in a bad way, and England struggling with her high taxes and unemployment. If the people had been consulted, instead of the few leaders, there would have been no war.

If the people who pay and the spectacle at Wembley was a striking illustration of the terms of their payment.

Death, disease and poverty are widespread and remain to afflict the generation which follow the warriors.

In time the common sense of the human race will devise some other method of settling their disputes.

Most people want to go and lead their lives reasonably and this ambition of the few ruler who are willing to sacrifice the multitude for their own advantage.

If we could always keep before us the picture of those who are broken and wounded by the wars there would never be another one.

In New York

NEW YORK, Oct. 28.—There are several dance halls in the neighborhood of Third avenue and Thirty-fourth street patronized exclusively by Oriental men and white women. The men are Filipinos, Japs and a few Hawaiians.

Around midnight you see them leaving, the white girls on the arms of yellow men. The men as a rule are dressed in the latest cake-eater styles. Many of them wear sideburns, in the Valentino manner.

No one is admitted to these dance halls except the Orientals who are members of an operating club and the white women who are employed as dancing partners. There are 30 such dance halls in Greater New York and they are known as "closed" halls. Several in Brooklyn are operated by Chinese.

In all there are 238 dance halls in the city. The paid admissions in 1923 totalled more than $1,000,000. Some of the Broadway dance halls which accommodate hundreds of couples have scores of "hostesses." Men who attend without girls pay ten cents a dance when they dance with a hostess. She receives four cents of that.

In one of the ballrooms of a higher order men pay 35 cents to dance with a hostess. She receives 25 cents of that sum. Tips are not nearly so frequent and liberal as they are generally expected to be.

Much of the dancing patronage in mid-town comes from lonesome visitors, hotel transients who know nobody here and in their loneliness turn to the dance hall.

No matter how well a professional dancing partner might like a casual acquaintance, her association with him is limited to the dancing floor. She would lose her job if she were found making appointments with patrons outside the dance hall.

There are two haberdasheries in the Times Square district which keep open all night. The only barber shop that remains open 24 hours a day, insofar as I know, is one sandwiched between Chatham Square and Chinatown.

KLUX FIGHT IS FEARED AT NILES

Mayor Asks Armed Aid To Prevent Bloodshed

NILES, Ohio, Oct. 28.—Predicting an outbreak between the Ku Klux Klan and Knights of the Flaming Circle, anti-klan organization, Mayor Kistler today called on Cleveland, Akron, Youngstown and Warren to send all available members of their police departments to Niles next Saturday when the Klan is scheduled to stage a masked parade.

Niles, scene of numerous so-called Klan riots, is one city in Ohio in which the Klan has never paraded. Mayor Kistler granted the Klan permission to use the streets for a parade Saturday afternoon and at the same time refused a similar request by the Knights of the Flaming Circle. The anti-klanmen objected to the parade principally because the marchers are to be masked.

New York woman of 72 passed a bad check. Sometimes wisdom comes with age, and sometimes age comes along.

REPUBLICAN HIGHBROWS JUMP INTO DEMO CAMP

There is a steady tide of republican intellectuals flowing into the John W. Davis camp. James A. Garfield was one of the founders of the republican party. He was one of the great leaders of the republican party. He was assassinated while holding the office of president of the United States.

Dr. Henry A. Garfield is the son of this former president. He is president of Williams College, Ohio, is a life long republican and was one of Theodore Roosevelt's closest friends. Dr. Garfield advocates the election of John W. Davis on account of what he terms, "the inexcusable attitude of indifference on the part of the Coolidge administration to the scandals which have afflicted it."

This must have been a knockout to Harry M. Daugherty who is a fellow Buckeye but not an admirer of the president of Williams College.

Miss Nancy M. Schoonmaker of New York, special speaker for the League of Nations non-partisan association and a widely known civic worker and writer of books, has deserted the republican party and will give her vote to nominee Davis. Miss Schoonmaker says: "In no other way except by our vote may we rebuke the dishonesty and corruption of republican high officials."

Republican intellectuals seem to be flocking to Davis daily but the intellectuals do not control the presidential elections which take place in America. They did in 1912 and in 1916 but Theodore Roosevelt paved the way for their victory in 1912 and the women of the west made possible the re-election of Woodrow Wilson in 1916.

Big business, and the country would be in a sorry fix without big business. Big business never asks a voter whether he is an intellectual or a dumbbell when the aforesaid B. B. pushes the aforesaid voter in the direction of the ballot box.

WITH ALL DUE RESPECT

England is arguing whether or not she should do away with John Bull, the fat gentleman with the square-top plug hat. For about 200 years John Bull has been the symbol of England—ni song, story and cartoon. The English now wonder if John isn't too old-fashioned, no longer representative of their country.

This starts us thinking: Does Uncle Sam, as pictured in cartoons and at masquerades, still symbolize America?

Would it be more appropriate to give him a new suit of clothes? Here's a chance for the cartoonists.

If an attempt is made to bring Uncle Sam up to date, a barber's first suggestion would be to shave off the venerable old gentleman's chin whiskers. It has always been a source of worry to us, that these would sooner or later get caught in the machinery.

Time was, when chin whiskers were in style. So were Sam's trousers that button with a strap under the instep of his heavy boots. So was his fork-tailed coat.

Uncle Sam was pictured to represent a conservative, level-headed shrewd old Yankee farmer—chewing a straw while he made wise cracks. And he looked the part—back yonder. No longer.

POLITICS AND PROSPERITY

These scare headlines are taken from the financial page of one of the leading American newspapers:

"Mid-west does not look for a boom, business proceeds at a moderate pace."

"Western business in sound condition, traffic is largest of the year, buyers seek stores in larger numbers."

"Cattle prices touch highest of the year. Beef market recovers from a demoralization of weeks, swine prices rise, too."

"Farmers in no hurry to market wheat—with pressing loans liquidated disposition in belt is to hold maturing grains."

"Wheat up eight cents in a week, with oats, rye and barley, reach highest point in recent years."

HEARST AND HYLAN

William Randolph Hearst and Mayor John F. Hylan of New York, for 10 these many years have been brothers under the skin. Now they have come to the parting of the ways. Mayor Hylan has pledged his support to Davis for president and Smith for governor and promises to go all the way.

This after the Hylans had been entertained for weeks at the ten million dollar California ranch by the Hearsts. Publisher Hearst isn't going all the way. His newspapers are doing all in their power to push La Follette to the forefront and Davis to the rear while on election day Mr. Arthur Brisbane, the chief editorial Hearst pusher, will cast his ballot for Coolidge and Dawes.

Mayor Hylan hopes he has a future. He believes his future best secured by traveling with the Hon. Al Smith.

MRS. LOT

By Wallace M. Bayliss

A habit sometimes is a cruel thing;

When most you want to break it,

presto, zing!

The darned old habit knocks you all to not.

For instance, take the case of Mrs.

Lot.

It may have been her glands were not all right.

At any rate she surely loved to fight.

If Lot should say, "My love, it is my wish

You'd cook no more of such and such a dish."

One thing certain, the dish would appear

At every meal for high onto a year.

One day Lot hustled home at half past

And cried: "Pack up the old suit case and run!

The Angel orders: "Skip to Hebron's

And on your lives don't turn around

The missus knew one time had come

Exactly as her husband told her to,

So as they skipped she tried to keep in mind

That she must not turn round and look behind;

But so disappointed was her pesky

She turned to look, and promptly

Milady's Femininity And Charm Enhanced by Hats Trimmed in Curly Ostrich

JUST as the girl of today was standing wide-eyed before the accusation, 'You have lost your femininity,' there comes into fashion in her defense the flowing, bobbing, curling, fluffing ostrich feather. Now what could be more feminine than that?

And the hats with plumes and tips, and pompoms and rosettes are just as thrilling as they can be. A girl who has been wearing a tailored hat, plain to point of severity, who's been flatter herself that it is the most becoming that she has ever owned—she it is who marvels at her own feelings as she dons this new chaplain of softness and irregular lines. She finds that under its sinister and subtle influence her head is easily assuming a new angle, that her face is taking on a new character of expression, that her eyes are shining with a brand new light suited only to her new headpiece.

There is something about an ostrich trimming that is flattering in the extreme and for that reason most of the hats of this budding season are surprisingly becoming. You will find, when you go to choose your new winter hat, that an astonishing number of the ones you try on are suiting you exactly and your problem will be which one to select rather than how to find the right one. Perhaps it is a lucky day for the milliners for you are apt to find so many hats irresistible in their appeal that you will long for more than your usual allowance.

In the games Miss Anna Williams was awarded the prize for high score and Miss Vivian Ashley received the booby award. A lovely salad course was offered at the close of the games.

Enjoying the pleasing affair were Mrs. R. Armstrong, Mrs. N. F. Mire, Mrs. O. Landry, Mrs. E. C. Kohlman, Mrs. Arthur Wolford, Sr., Mrs. L. L. Billeau, Mrs. C. W. ## Your Dreams

And What They Mean

Dreams about the teeth often occur, especially to those who are unfortunate enough to have to spend a good deal of time in the dentist's chair.

But these dreams are often omens of good. For instance, if your teeth appear white and sound, joy and prosperity is denoted.

On the other hand, if they are decayed, loss of fortune is foreseen. If you dream you lose a tooth, beware, for you may lose friends or a lover. An extra long one may mean that you are to quarrel with relatives.

Interpretations
To dream of eating peas well boiled denotes an expedition of business with good success.

If you are drawing pictures, it is pleasure without profit.

When old women come into your dreams, unless they bring a friendly message and is one whom you know, beware of scandal.

An unknown person walking like in a vision denotes that a long lost one will suddenly return.

If during your slumbers you seem to be bothered by much yawning, it is a sign that you will have to expend more energy if you are to succeed.

IS THIS YOUR BIRTHDAY?

TUESDAY, Oct. 28.—You will find great happiness and success, providing you learn to assert yourself properly, and if you make a definite change from your present occupation and manner of living.

Be prepared to meet the reverses of life happily, for there is always a bright side for those who are not afraid to tackle their problems.

You can cultivate a magnetic personality and while doing so learn to read human nature. With your other abilities you will then be equipped to take a happy path through life.

LETTER FROM LESLIE PRES-COTT TO THE LITTLE MARQUISE, CARE OF THE SECRET DRAWER

I have come to the conclusion, little Marquise, that heaven is a place where everybody understands. I said this to mother yesterday when she had come to me in great trouble because she had tried to break down the reserve with which Alice was treating us, and could not do it.

Dear, dear mother! I could not help contrasting her with John's mother, who is the least understanding and the most selfish old woman I have ever known. More than ever since my father's death mother has seemed to get at the heart of everything—except of her daughter Alice. She makes me feel that if I could be like her, there would be no more unhappiness for me in all my married life.

She said to me yesterday: "Dear, all the sorrow and sin of the world is made up of misunderstanding, and the greatest misunderstanding of all is our misunderstanding of the value of work. It is one of the greatest comforts and consolation of the world."

This she said to me, little Marquise, when I had remonstrated with her for working so hard in the settling of her affairs and putting her house in order.

"Sometimes I have thought, Leslie," she said, and her sad eyes took on the look of a seer, "that one reason we look upon work as a punishment instead of a panacea is because of that edict that came out of the Garden of Eden when the first man and woman were driven out: 'By the sweat of your brow shall ye live.'"

"Work, my dear, is the greatest blessing in the world. I could not have lived these past few days if my hands and brain had not been so busy with things outside myself and my sorrow that I could not crowd it in to either my thoughts or my heart. I have come to know that this work is the greatest blessing in all the world."

Alice, who was in the room, spoke up. "I do not think you would make such a paean on work, mother, if you could see the children in the sweat-shops and the poor little slaves in the poorer places of London."

"When I say 'work,' Alice, I do not mean the 'work' by which men, women and even little children are driven like slaves beyond their strength for a mere pittance with which to keep body and soul together. If everyone, my dear, did his share of the world's work, no-

Weird Customs of October 31 Started With Old Father Adam

And They Were Observed By All Races and Creeds, Search of Records, New and Old, Reveals

Halloween, according to Donald Ogden Stewart, is a season of "spooky gaiety and light-hearted ghastliness, when witches and ghosts run riot, corpses dance, and black cats howl."

In his farcical book of etiquette, "Perfect Behaviour," he suggests the enclosure of a dead fish with the invitation of a Halloween party, as being in keeping with the occasion, and speaks of "more work for the undertaker" being the "leit motif" of the evening.

Halloween, which is merely the evening before All Saints' day, got its ghastliness from almost prehistoric times. All Saints' day itself, according to Chambers' "Book of Days," commemorates the conversion of the pagans at Rome from a pagan temple to a Christian place of worship. This was done in the seventh century. The date first selected to remember the occasion was May 1, but it was later changed to Nov. 1. And by changing it to Nov. 1, the greeting card manufacturers, or whoever it is that selects holidays, stepped right square into the ancient "Festival of the Dead."

St. Halloween, with its saintly name, acquired the immortal ghastly superstitions that have developed, since, into the "light-hearted ghastliness" which Mr. Stewart laughs about. "Ghosts' Spect" To quote further from Chambers' "Book of Days," on Halloween "the immortal principle in humanity descends itself from its corporeal tenement and wanders abroad through the realms of space." In other words, as Shakespeare hath it, "Ghosts do squeak and squeal about the streets." It is these ghosts who are supposed to hang gates on telephone poles, ring the bells in the churches, roll apples across the street car tracks, and generally raise Cain. The ghosts generally take the form of boys, and the hoodlum wagon and the city police find them very material.

Known to Many Races The festival of the dead, or something similar to it, was observed by many primitive races. The Druids thought that early in November, Saman, lord of death, called together the spirits of the wicked which were haunting the bodies of animals. That is what the Encyclopedia Britannica says about them, and it further states that in portions of Ireland to this day the "Vigil of Saman" is observed about this time.

The Aztecs used to have an idea that the world was coming to an end in November. The Japanese still celebrate the "Festival of the Lanterns," a commemoration of some great calamity which is supposed to have happened about the first of November. The Persians called November

"Nordan" after the angel of death. The Fiji Islanders have a feast of the dead during the last days of October.

Then the Flood And what is more impressive than anything else, the flood is supposed to have happened about the middle of November. The Moslem account of the deluge makes it come at that time, it is said. Which would largely account for the "festival of the dead" idea, as the flood killed a good many people, they tell us—all, except Noah and a few of his best friends.

Incidentally, the Talmud claims that the flood was brought about by somebody pulling two stars out of the Pleiades, like pulling stoppers out of a bottle, and letting the water come through on the earth.

Those Pleiades, which can be seen about this time twinkling very close together, somewhere between the eastern horizon and the zenith, are all mixed up with Halloween and the feast of the dead. The Arabs think that the sea of immortality is in the Pleiades.

And yet somebody says, probably in the Bible, "Canst thou bind the sweet influences of the Pleiades, or loose the bands of Orion?" The "sweet influences" have certainly degenerated now, when they bring about the inclusion of a dead fish in an invitation to a party.

Phunk in the Middle of 'Em But anyhow, the "Feast of the Dead," or something similar to it, happened in November among many primitive races, long before there was any inkling of Christianity. And along came All Saints' day and sat down right in the middle of the feast. And the ghosts took advantage of it.

All the habits of throwing apple peelings over the head on Halloween, and of jolting for apples, and so on, comes from the pagan Roman feast given to Pomona about that time. Nuts and apples, and other things which are in season in November, were offered to the goddess. Along those same lines, the Irish girls used to, and may still, lay two or three nuts on a grate over a fire, and name them for their various admirers. If a nut cracked open or popped away, that suitor would be unfaithful. If one stayed on the grate and burned up, that suitor would be true.

That Mirror Stunt The business of looking in a mirror, with the supposition that the face of your "true love" would look over your shoulder, originally had an apple attached to it. The lady looking in the mirror was supposed to be eating one. In fact, Halloween is all wrapped up in apples, like original sin.

This line of reasoning might take us even further back than the flood, although none of the commentators on Halloween have suggested it. Apples ripen in October and November. Eve ate an apple, right off a tree. Therefore it must have been in October or November, around about Halloween, that the devil first entered

GHOSTLY HAND WEIRD EFFECT

Clammy, Creepy Feeling Is Sure to Result

Stuff an old kid glove with rags or paper. Then wet the outside of the glove with ice water. Invite your guests, one by one, into a darkened room to meet the "spreading spirit" of the evening. The person holding the glove contrives to have the guest take it in his or her hand.

It is even better for the host to put a wet glove on his own hand and grasp the hand of each person with it. The clammy, creepy feeling of being touched with a cold, wet glove will get a rise out of "most anybody." It is one of the best of the Halloween spirit tricks.

DELPHIC ORACLE FURNISHES FUN

Can Answer Only Yes or No to Questions

The "Delphic Oracle" will provide much amusement for Halloween party. Some member of the party should be stationed in a dark corner. Let him stand on a box to increase his height, shroud him in a sheet, and let him hold a jack-o'-lantern on his head.

The oracle can answer only "yes" or "no" to questions asked her, but the volubility with which she nods or shakes her head can be very expressive. The oracle should be surrounded by cornstalks and autumn leaves and vines simply arranged. Pumpkins and vegetables of all sorts can be used to hold candles.

ACCORD REACHED IN IRAK BORDER CASE

LONDON, Oct. 28.—The League of Nations council has reached agreement on the dispute between Turkey and Great Britain over the Iraq border and the Mosul oil fields, which was referred to the council for arbitration, according to an Exchange telegraph dispatch from Brussels.

A man in St. Louis hit a policeman on the ear, but all of us can't live in St. Louis. into mankind. Which gives an excellent reason for the disappearings of witches, wizards and inferior and superior devils, as well as ghosts, at that season.

Halloween Menus

Breakfast—Grape juice, hominy cooked with figs, thin cream, toasted bran bread, scrambled eggs, milk, coffee.

Luncheon—Lima beans in lemon sauce, Peanut butter sandwiches, apple tapioca pudding, milk, tea.

Dinner—Salisbury steak, brown gravy, mashed potatoes, buttered beets, tomato and onion salad, oatmeal bread and butter, pear and pineapple conserve, mother's pumpkin pie, milk, coffee.

The pumpkin pie is a concession to father but junior may have a small piece without the crust. Home-made grape juice makes an excellent breakfast "fruit" and the housekeeper who has a grape vine over her back fence may be glad of a simple rule for making this "house brew."

Grape Juice Pick over grapes and remove from stems. Wash thoroughly. Put in preserving kettle and heat, stirring to prevent burning. No water is needed in the kettle as some clings to the grapes. When broken pour into jelly bag and let drip. Measure and add

1 cup of sugar to every 4 cups juice. Return to preserving kettle, bring to the boiling point and pour into hot sterilized bottles or cans. Seal. Be sure the juice is boiling when put into the bottles and that the bottles are full to overflowing.

Lima Beans in Lemon Sauce One pint lima beans, 1 egg, 2 tablespoons cold water, 1 tablespoon lemon juice, 2 tablespoons butter, salt and pepper.

Cook beans in boiling water to cover until tender. Use as little water as possible. Drain if necessary but the water should be cooked away. Season with salt and pepper and keep hot. Beat egg with water until light. Beat in lemon juice and butter and cook over hot water until thick. Season with salt and pepper and pour over beans.

Pear and Pineapple Conserve Pare and core pears and weigh. One pound pears, 1-2 lemon, grated rind and juice, 1 orange, grated rind and juice 1-2 pineapple, 3-4 as much sugar as fruit.

Cut pears into cubes. Cook until tender. Use just enough water to prevent burning for both the pears and pineapple. Combine fruit, add grated rind and juice of lemon and orange and measure. Use 3-4 as much sugar as fruit. Put fruit into preserving kettle, bring to the boiling point and slowly sift in sugar which has been heated in the oven. Cook until mixture is transparent. Pour into sterilized glasses and cover with paraffin when cold.

Surprise Baked Potatoes

Four large smooth Irish potatoes, 2 tablespoons butter, 4 tablespoons hot milk, 1 tablespoon grated cheese, 4 eggs, 1 teaspoon salt, dash paprika. Wash potatoes through several waters and scrub well with a small brush. Rub the skins well with a potato with butter and salt and beat well. Add milk and cheese and beat until light. Break an egg into each one hour, turning often. After the potatoes are hot, rub them again with bacon fat. Remove from oven and cut a slice from the side of each potato. Scoop out potato, scraping as close to the skin as possible but taking care not to break the shell. Mash (Copyright, 1924, NEA Service, Inc.)

Baylor to Be Dark Horse Against A. & M. Saturday

ARS BEATEN BY OUTSIDERS IN TWO TILTS

Aggies Lucky to Get 7-7 Tie With S. M. U.

BAYLOR is the dark horse and the result of the conference games occasioned by the surprising weekend of results. Baylor seems to be the one team that can halt championship aspirations of one or two of the leading contenders, and this despite the surprising 7-3 victory of Austin College over the Bears, the second defeat of the season for the Waco team.

Baylor meets Texas A. & M. this week at Waco in a game which will eliminate one or the other of the two teams. Of course, there is a good chance of a tie, as was the case at Dallas last week. The surprise at Dallas was not that there was a tie but that A. & M. was not defeated. S. M. U.'s air attack ran wild against the Farmers and yet could score but one touchdown. When A. & M. scored a touchdown on a punt blocked and recovered by Waco in the first period, the dope should have been 7-0 for the Aggies, for once the Aggies score it is next to impossible to force ahead.

Bears in-and-outers
Baylor has been defeated twice, by Austin College and by the Central Teachers of Oklahoma, both non-conference teams, but in spite of this the Bears remain as one of the strongest teams in the conference. When Austin college won, the Bears simply ran true to their traditional form. They make up the greatest in-and-out team of the southwest. For some unknown reason, they have almost never been known to play consistently. One week they play a great game, the next week they fall below mediocrity.

So the great battle will be on Saturday to eliminate the Aggies or the Bears. Last year it was a 0-0 tie, and this year may be the same. Should the game be a tie, the muddled situation will be complicated still further, to be entangled only in part when Baylor meets S. M. U. The Methodists are resting easily this week with only a game against T. C. U. elated.

To those who are cock sure A. & M. will defeat Baylor this week, a word of warning might be extended and this friendly word might be based on no other person than Frank Bridges, the greatest exponent of optimism and trickiness in the conference. Last year Bridges amply illustrated this in the Texas-Baylor game. Only one week before the great tie of Ralph Pittman had saved the Bears from a wallowing by the Farmers.

Same Old Bridges Again

Texas came to Waco a strong favorite and the crafty Bridges didn't do a thing but pull out with a 7-7 tie, something the Longhorns were very thankful for. Bridges pulled his famous short outside kickoff, something Texas knew he had up his sleeve—pulled it twice, and worked it twice successfully. Baylor scored on an unfortunate break of the game when Eckhardt punted three yards back of his own goal line, and only the great line—smashing of Casey Joe Ward swept the ball down to a score in the last quarter.

It is the same Bridges that the Aggies will meet Saturday, the jabbering, peppery, scrapping little blond-headed fellow at Baylor. The Aggies will see whether the Bears can flash the same game they displayed in their only conference game, a 13-0 defeat of Arkansas, when 16 Arkansas passes went without a single completion.

"Watch Baylor," we say, for Bridges' team is bound to do some damage somewhere and soon, despite the dope.

Texas-Rice Unimportant

The other games of the conference this week, which include a Texas-Rice game at Houston, are of comparatively little importance as compared with the fight at Waco Saturday. Baylor is the joker in the conference hand against Bible's powerful College Station defense and S. M. U.'s air attack, claimed to be the greatest ever in the southwest.

AGGIES BUCKLE DOWN

COLLEGE STATION, Oct. 28.—Light scrimmage and plenty of aerial work was prescribed for the Texas Aggies in today's round. The farmers play Baylor university at Waco as a feature of the Cotton Palace Saturday.

PERCY HAUGHTON

'Haughton System' at Harvard Won 64 Games, Lost Four and Tied Five

By FANK GETTY
United Press Staff Correspondent
NEW YORK, Oct. 28.—At the peak of his career as a football coach Percy D. Haughton is dead.

The famous gridiron mentor passed away suddenly from an attack of pneumonia of the heart at St. Luke's hospital at 5:10 Monday afternoon. Haughton practically died in harness; he was donning his football togs preparatory to directing the Columbia university eleven in practice at Baker field, when he complained of pains in his chest. Two hours later he died.

Made Record at Harvard
Tribute to Haughton as a man and as a coach poured into Columbia today. Walter Camp, "Bob" Fisher of Harvard, Roper of Princeton and John T. Renshaw, Yale director of athletics, all were shocked at the sudden death of the football genius whose "Haughton system" has enabled Harvard teams to sweep the gridiron of the east.

While Haughton was at Harvard from 1908 to 1916 his teams won 64 games, tied five and lost four. But his achievement within the past fortnight at Columbia was being hailed by football enthusiasts as even more remarkable, when his sudden death plunged the university into deep gloom.

Haughton had given Columbia a scrapping, scientific eleven, peria's its best in a score of years and victory over Williams Saturday marked the accomplishment.

Himself a famous athlete in his younger days—Haughton was in his 49th year—the coach had enjoyed good health. At the end, doctors at St. Luke were assuring him there was nothing the matter with his heart. It developed later, however, that his mother and one of his brothers died from a similar cause.

Proud of His Team

The coach was in his room at Baker field getting into uniform when he complained of pains in his chest and shoulders. Dr. Paul C. Withington, medical director and line coach of the Columbia team, persuaded him with difficulty to lie down and later to go to St. Luke's. There, following an hypodermic injection, he felt better for a while and remarked: "I think I'll be back on the job in a day or two." Then he fell back dead.

Dr. Withington will take charge of Columbia's football team for the remainder of the season.

"Paul, congratulate the team for me. Tell them I'm proud of them," was the message Haughton sent from the hospital a few minutes before he died.

'Irish' Quarterback

Hurt Against Tigers

SOUTH BEND, Oct. 28.—Coach Rockne today started training three players to fill the quarterback position made vacant by the injury to Stulzinger, who came home from the Princeton game in a dilapidated condition. They are Edwards, Scherer and Reese.

Hawkeyes Seek Guard

To Replace Lost Star

IOWA CITY, Oct. 28.—While Coach Ingwersen looked frantically for a heavy guard to replace Flackensen, lost for the season, on account of a broken shoulder, the Hawkeyes scrimmaged against the scrubs using Illinois formations.

PURDUE VS. CHICAGO

LA FAYETTE, Ind., Oct. 28.—With all the sick and injured back in uniform except Monroe and Deephouse, Coach Jimmy Phelan sent his Boilermakers through a grueling scrimmage in preparation for Chicago.

STEGER BACK IN GAME

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Oct. 28.—Captain Steger was to report for practice today. This announcement bolstered the Wolverine hopes immeasurably yesterday and they went through a long session willingly in preparation for Minnesota.

PISTOL-TOTING INVESTIGATOR ROUSES SCARE

Beaumont Wants Intercity Game at Houston

The recalcitrant Beaumont high football team was yesterday forced to take its own medicine when Director Roy B. Henderson of the University of Texas interscholastic league ordered Dimmitt's team to play Houston Heights at Houston by Monday afternoon at the latest.

The district situation is that Port Arthur, Beaumont, Houston Central and Houston Heights are all undefeated, although neither of the Houston teams is reported to have played any Class A games in the league. Beaumont has been urging that the two Houston teams meet this week and that Beaumont meet Port Arthur Saturday. The Yellowjackets are already contracted to play Beaumont here on November 11.

Beaumont Likely to Win
While Houston Heights probably will be eliminated by Beaumont the Yellowjackets meet Houston Central this Saturday. The Port Arthur game promises to be a nip and tuck fight, a real battle. The Port Arthur-Houston Central game Saturday morning and the Texas-Rice game Saturday afternoon made it impossible for Beaumont to play at Houston until Monday.

Beaumont was stirred up considerably yesterday, according to reports "coming here" by a gun-toting "ranger" who introduced himself as "Weller" and looked over the records as to the eligibility of various Beaumont players. At the high school he made out that he was a representative of Roy B. Henderson, but at his hotel he merely said he was interested for his own information in clean sport. Investigation by officers showed he had gun-toting credentials but a message to Austin revealed that he had no connection with the interscholastic league. Consequently Beaumont is all up in the air wondering what the heck is coming off next.

Ryan to Cardinals?

The fans in the middle west still feel how they were fooled over the White Sox scandal in 1919, and they don't want to be placed in the sucker class again. Other baseball talk aside from the scandal, is being heard. It is reported that Ross Ryan, the Giant pitcher, has been traded to the St. Louis Cardinals and that Rogers Hornsby will succeed Branch Rickey as the manager of the St. Louis club. Rube Benton is to be traded or released by the Cincinnati Reds for the same reason that Pat Duncan was sent away to Washington, it is said. They were said to be out of sympathy with their manager last season George Burns, the veteran Cincinnati outfielder, may be traded.

CANAL DREDGE WORK END NEAR

Pier Bridge Closed Nights For Several Days

End of the dredging work to give Port Arthur a 30-foot channel to the Gulf of Mexico is predicted for next Tuesday or Wednesday, when it is expected the dredge Pensacola will cut through into Sabine Pass, S. W. Clarke, U. S. Government engineer in charge of the Sabine district, said today.

Hard clay encountered by the Pensacola slowed up the dredging work recently and delayed the end of the project in the Port Arthur ship canal until next week, Clarke said. The government dredge Kilmble is cutting away in the west basin, in Port Arthur harbor, to a depth of 30 feet the length and breadth of the basin.

Closing of the ship canal at the Pleasure Pier bridge has been ordered for Wednesday afternoon at 5 o'clock, and the channel will be closed to traffic every night thereafter until the deepening work is completed through the pier bridge by the dredge Texas, Clarke said. The canal will be reopened to traffic at 8 a. m. daily, he said.

Port Arthur Boys

Promoted at A. M.

Clyde V. May and Henry Gerbins, Port Arthur boys, have been promoted to sergeants in the A. and M. cadet corps.

Ranks in the cadet corps at A. and M. are won by those students showing proficiency in college work and in military drills, and are given only through the recommendation of the commandant and the approval of the president.

May and Gerbins are juniors at A. and M. this year and will graduate with the class of 1925.

PRIME MINISTER ILL

ON EVE OF ELECTION

ABERAVON, Wales, Oct. 28.—Prime Minister Mac Donald was forced by illness to go to bed this afternoon on the eve of the general election. The premier cancelled his proposed speech with which he had planned to close his campaign.

Mac Donald was exhausted from a strenuous tour and had been suffering from insomnia.

Tunney Kayoes Foley In First at Memphis

MEMPHIS, Oct. 28.—Gene Tunney, light heavyweight champion of the United States, scored a one-round knockout here last night over Harry Foley of Hot Springs in the opening show of the fall boxing season in the new municipal auditorium. The finishing punch came in two minutes and five seconds.

Four Best Navy Stars Fail to Pass Courses

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Oct. 28.—Four of the Navy's most valuable players have been found ineligible for football because of deficiencies in scholastic work and will not be allowed to play until November 22, at least when another school month ends. The players are Shapley, star quarterback; Flippen, who next to Shapley is the most experienced back; Osborne, the best center in years, and the 220-pound guard, Lenta.

SOONERS LOSE MASOOT

NORMAN, Okla., Oct. 28.—A flux will have befallen the Sooners unless "Mex," the mascot of the squad is found. Mex is a brown and white spotted building, known throughout Missouri valley football circuits. He was lost in changing trains on the trip to Des Moines last Saturday.

TEXAS PLAYS USED IN RICE SCRIMMAGE

HOUSTON, Texas, Oct. 28.—Wasting no time in preparing for the Longhorn game Saturday, Coach John Heilmann, sent his Rice Owls through scrimmage last night with his reserves using Texas plays. Heyck, lineman, injured in Saturday's conflict was the only missing player.

SPECIAL TRAIN MUST BE SOLD BY WEDNESDAY

Many to Go for Texas-Rice Game at Houston

"Beaumont will not have any set-up against Houston Heights," said Coach Lee Smith of the Yellowjackets this morning. "They have a pretty husky team."

Out at the high school practice is going on at top speed for the first game of the season Saturday against Houston Central at Houston. A large crowd is expected to make the trip to Houston Saturday morning—that is, if enough reservations are made by tomorrow, when 150 tickets must be sold to guarantee a special train from Beaumont. The round trip fare will be $4.55, cheaper if as many as 300 tickets are sold.

Good Connections Made
The special train will leave Beaumont at 7:15 Saturday morning, returning from Houston about 7:30 or 8 p. m. Anybody is invited to make the trip, and many are expected to go over for both the high school game in the morning and the Texas-Rice game in the afternoon. The only other trains out of Beaumont in the morning are at 5:35 and 8:30, and returning at night the regular train at 9 p. m. reaches Beaumont too late for interurban connections to Port Arthur.

Town people wanting to ride on the special are asked to get into touch with Coach Smith or Principal Davis at the high school not later than Wednesday.

Houston Central has the same

'Cover Up' Dope Termed 'Bunk' By T. C. U. Coach

Matty Bell Thinks A. & M. Will Beat Baylor Saturday

BY MADISON BELL
Coach Texas Christian University.
Written for The United Press
FORT WORTH, Texas, Oct. 28.—

Results of last week's games in the southwest conference leaves the race in a sort of a muddle, with the 1924 champions not likely to be decided before late November.

Texas A. & M. put up the battle I expected and held Southern Methodist university to a tie, but Dame Fortune smiled on the Aggies. A few more seconds and the Mustangs would have scored the touchdown that would have meant victory. The timekeeper's watch beat the Dallas crew out of a victory.

Aggies to Beat Baylor
The strength shown by these teams in their great game Saturday means they will be favorites in their remaining contests. The Aggies should beat Baylor next Saturday, while the Mustangs will be the big favorites to down my Texas Christian Horned Frogs.

The Frogs lost the second conference game, Rice taking the bacon to Houston by a 7 to 3 margin. The Owls have a great defensive game and a long forward pass and penalties proved disastrous to my team.

Being the "under dogs" in the coming S. M. U. game, I expect the Frogs to put up the best fight of the season. The game will be played in T. C. U. stadium, Fort Worth, and should be the biggest attraction of the local campaign.

Waco was the zone of a big upset Saturday. Frank Bridges' Baylor Bears certainly were not expected to go down before the Austin College Kangaroos, though the T. I. A. A. school at Sherman boasts a powerful squad. The Bears apparently did not cover up, either, for it took all they had to hold the score down.

Right here I'd like to say that the old "cover up" dope is the bunk, for there are not many coaches who will refuse to show what they have, rather than w.

Texas U. Improving
The Texas Longhorns came back strong, after the battering they received in the S. M. U. week before. In trying the Florida 'Gators they showed they are improvig each week. Coach Stewart seems to be pointing his Longhorns to the A. and M. classic at Austin Thanksgiving.

Oklahoma A. and M. won from the strong Phillips squad. The Aggies are expected to prove troublesome to opponents in their coming conference battles.

The Arkansas Razorbacks defeated Mississippi 20 to 0 last week. Coach Francis Schmidt's eleven must be watched.

The fellow who has been hating to cut the weeds will soon be hating to carry out the ashes.

The Green Wizard was sitting in his easy chair trying to make up his mind whether to get his hair or his beard bobbed, or just his beard, or just his hair, or both—when pop, pop, pop! out rolled the three adventures at his feet like so many Santa Clauses. "Black cats and white nanny goats!" cried the Green Wizard springing to his feet and reaching for his invisible cloak which he always kept handy. But just then he recognized the Twins, and my how he did laugh! "White cats and black nanny goats! Is it you, you rascals?" he exclaimed. "Well, what's lost this time? And who is your friend?" The Twins introduced him to Daddy Gander and then told him how the House-That-Jack-Built had been missing from its place on Poppin Hill, and how Jack and Jill and Mrs. John, their mother, had no place to go until it was found. "We thought," said Nancy, "that perhaps you would look in your magic gazing-ball and find out what had become of it." Of course! Of course! declared the kind Green Wizard reaching up to the top shelf of his cupboard where he kept the ball. "Here it is. Come and pull your chairs up everybody and we'll gaze as hard as ever we can." He put the ball on the table and everybody looked into its crystal depths. And what do you think they saw. The House-That-Jack-Built riding along on a cloud with dough sticking out of all the windows! "Well, I declare!" said Daddy Gander. "So that's what happened!" Copyright, 1924, NEA Service, Inc.)

CHILD'S STORY OF THE HUMAN RACE

By Uncle RAY

Using on his bank in a sandy place—dreaming. What dreams must have come to this active-minded youth! He little knew how his dreams would some day be put into words of such beauty that the world would never tire of them.

In other moments, William must have been busy with human affairs. In his plays, his knowledge of nature is only equalled by what he knew about people. We may well believe that he spent many an hour talking to men who came to bargain in his father's store. When strolling in the country, he must have taken up with farmers from time to time. Perhaps he asked them questions after question. At any rate, he drew them out until he knew their lives inside and out.

Some of William's strollings seem to have taken him to the nearby village of Shotbury. There he came to know a young woman named Anne Hathaway. To be frank, she wasn't so very young—at least, not compared to William. She was six or eight years older than he.

The young fellow from Stratford—"Gentle Will"—did not seem to mind the age of Anne. They were married. The youth was then less than 19. (Copyright, the John P. Dille Co., Chicago.)

Special Train
TO A. M. CLASH
Reservations to Turkey Day Game at Habers
At the regular bi-monthly meeting of the local Aggie ex-students association held in the main dining room of the Plaza Hotel last night, plans were presented and completed for a special train to the Texas-Aggie football classic at Austin on Thanksgiving Day. Reservations for this train may be made now and are being accepted by M. Blankfield at Habers store, Tom Cleveland, passenger agent of the S. P. lines, urged that reservations be made early in order that the usual rush on Thanksgiving Day be lessened.
The Aggie special will leave Beaumont at 9:20 Wednesday night, November 26, and will arrive in Austin Thursday morning. The train will leave Austin Thursday night at 8:20 and will arrive in Beaumont at 5:30 Friday a. m., making connection with the interurban to Port Arthur. The round trip rate not including Pullman has been set at $11.95. A stop-over till midnight Saturday is allowed at this rate.
The Aggie meeting Monday evening was largely attended. It was probably the peppiest and most interesting meeting of the season. Professor Dabney of the A. & M. extension service made an interesting talk, picturing the new buildings and promenades now being built at A. & M. "Tabby" Butcher of the Beaumont club announced that the famous A. & M. exhibit which attracted such nationwide comment will be on exhibition at the South Texas State Fair in Beaumont.
Plans are also getting under way for the Christmas dances to be held here and in Beaumont. Efforts are being made to get the Aggie Land Six, the official A. & M. dance orchestra, to play for these dances.
John Newton, assistant superintendent of the Magnolia Refining company at Beaumont, sent his regrets at not being able to attend the meeting. Newton is a graduate of A. & M. class of 1912, and was scheduled to address the club last night.
It was pointed out that the Aggie meetings are open to all men who have attended A. & M. college and that these meetings afford an opportunity for good fellowship.

Flowers Flays 'Lax Sense Of Decency' of Married Folk

Present Day Immorality Enough to Make Devil Happy, Rev. Flowers Tells Crowd at Revival Here

Flaying immorality, "among the married folks," asserting that "in too many cases it's enough to make the devil vomit," and decriing "lax sense of decency among the younger set," which he said has created "more lust, more immorality and more debauchery than at any other time in the history of the country," Rev. R. L. Flowers delivered a strong sermon Monday night to a large crowd at Trinity Methodist church in his revival sermon on "Port Arthur Special Liars and Hypocrites."

"We need more old-fashioned religious people that are not afraid to stand up for the righteousness of Jesus Christ," the minister said. "We need more men and women in the school room, the pulpit, every walk of life that'll dare to stand up for the old-fashioned principles of righteousness, the righteousness of honesty, integrity, respect for God."

Need Law in Homes

"We need more mothers and fathers who will assert law—the law of right doing—in their homes; too many upstart boys and girls are telling their parents where to head in."

"We need more parents who'll put a stop to their boys and girls piling 10 deep in Fords and gallivanting around through the dead hours of nights on highways—for that's as rotten as hell!"

"All sense of modesty is gone from too many of the present younger set, and there never was a time in which there was more lust, more immorality than at present, and I'm not a pessimist, either."

Mrs. Flowers to Preach

Dr. Flowers took his text from the first Psalm, 4th verse, Rev. 21:8, and Matt. 23:13-23. The church auditorium was crowded, and there were many present who had not heard the evangelist preach before. It was announced during the preliminary remarks that tonight Mrs. Flowers, wife of the minister, will deliver a sermon on "For I'm Not Ashamed of the Gospel of Christ."

As Rev. Flowers "warmed" to his subject, he became eloquent in his remarks, and drove home with vivid reality the points of his theme.

"There are many liars and hypocrites who will appear at the judgment bar of God," he said, "but who shall be turned away. There are people who think that Christ was a man of weakness and humility—and He was—but He was also a man of steel and iron; Jesus could not look upon the hypocrite, the liar with favor, and it is written in the Book that He shall know them not!"

Church is Defended

"I could never understand why a man or woman would join the church and then go off out yonder to blacken and defile its name by living a hypocritical life."

"There was a steward in a church where I held a meeting once—ostensibly a very devout man; a man who matched dollar for dollar with what-ever the church raised to help put the institution across. He gave liberally, he was very active in every drive, he was a potent part of every campaign. Such a man was ostensibly an asset to that church. But that man was keeping a woman on the side and using the church to shield his iniquity."

"The preacher asked me what I'd do about such a man—so valuable a man, financially—and I told the preacher that I'd 'can' that man so quick it would make his head swim! The church is no place for the hypocrite, but we have them just the same."

The Gattling Tongue

Speaking of the hypocrite who "rips everybody else who's not present up the back," Rev. Flowers said "I'd rather my wife would smoke a filthy old pipe than that she should have a long and gattling tongue and go about slashing and cutting everybody's character."

Here, he took occasion to bitterly denounce the "crap-shooting Baptist, the card-playing Methodist, the whiskey-playing Presbyterian, and the rest who's religion just extends over the weekend."

Refuting the "every day report that the world is drinking more whiskey than ever before," Rev. Flowers said so scarce "that I expect to see the time when you'll have to prime some of these old boozers to get 'em to spit!"

"Diabolical Liars"

The "diabolical liar who gets himself engaged to four girls, and subsequently breaks the hearts of three and wrecks their lives," the married woman "who'd rather go up town to flirt with some jellies on Procter street than stay at home where she belongs to keep the home fires burning," the married man who frequents the picture show to hold the hand of some simple headed sissy," the "religious liar," the business liar "who tells you a white one about his property or his goods in order to make a sale," came in for denunciatory words that literally flew from the lips of the evangelist as he pointed out the sin "that's in the hearts of this class of cattle."

A scathing attack was made by the evangelist on "the sex themes of too many of the present-day movie yarns," which he said "have no regard for the sacred relations of marriage."

Urges "Sizzling Protest"

"I think a sizzling protest ought to go up from the pen of every editor, from the mouth of every pulpit, every teacher, every business man in every walk of life when a rotten picture comes to town," he said in this connection, declaring that "I'm not against the moving picture show; I think that many of them are all right, but there are far too many with themes that deal lightly with the marriage and divorce problem."

Why, do you know that today, in the rooms of over 100,000 girls in America hangs the picture of some movie 'queen' so rotten morally that when they're sued for divorce their husbands don't even raise a hand? It's a fact!

Selfishness Flayed

"Not long ago, up in Dallas, there was a girl in the ticket box of one of our prominent moving picture theaters up there. And the girl saw a man pacing angrily back and forth in front of the theatre, displaying now and then a pistol which he wore at his side. The girl got excited, so she called the manager, and the manager, not wanting any trouble at his theatre, went out and asked the man what was wrong. 'I'm waiting for my wife—she's in there with another man, and when they come out, I'm going to shoot him,' the man said. And the manager rushed back in the theater, desiring to save the reputation of the place, and not have any trouble there, and announced to the audience the fact that the man with the pistol was in front, and that to save disgrace, the guilty parties could leave through the rear exit of the theater."

"And eight couples walked out," the "selfish Christian who thinks more of his lodge, his business than the church," was denounced as the minister closed his sermon, calling for "you sinners to get right."
